GLOOM
...Ah! Please... Don't feel bad about it...
It could sense my bloodlust, huh...?
I see...
That bear was scared... The sounds you made, they were cold... Like a blade...
Reminded of the time when Reszurre stopped a king grizzly with her voice, I decided to ask her how she did it, but it seems like it was more of an instinctual thing than a conscious ability.
Although...
If you had a way to let the other party know that it's okay...
It would be reas-suring for everyone, wouldn't it...
Reszurre was right. If an animal is simply afraid of you, being able to let it know that you mean no harm would go a long way. Maybe I could make a magical tool for that purpose...
